RIVAL COMMITTEES.

Not Yet Settled Which Will Make the Tariff The rivalry between the appropriations committee and the commutee on ways and means over the honor of investigation.

The rivalry between the appropriations committee and the commutee on ways and means over the honor of investigating the financial condition of the government is growing in interest. Mr. Wilson's resolution referring the matter to the ways and means cammittee was very carefully prepared weeks ago after consultation with the compation during this session and to secure a mass of information which would lighten the labors of the committee of the next House when the tariff legislation is taken up in earnest. By mistake this resolution was attributed to Mr. Breckinridge yesteriacy, but it was prepared as the semi-official more of the tariff reforms at the semi-official more of the tariff reforms at the semi-official more of the tariff reforms at the semi-official more of the chairman of information which would lighten the labors of the committee of the thready was a semi-official more of the tariff reforms at the semi-official more of the tariff reforms at the semi-official more of the chairman of the proportion committee of the chairman of the proportion committee of the chairman of the proportion committee on the chairman of the proportion committee of the chairman of the proportion committee on the chairman of the proportion committee on the chairman of the committee of the tariff reforms at the second of the committee of the chairman of the proportion committee of the chairman of the committee of the chairman as tariff experts, and as some of Mr. Dockery's friends are anxious that he should be chairman of the ways and means committee of the next House, the committee is behind him in the demand that the investigation be delegated to appropriations. The committee on rules failed to come to any conclusion yesterday and the fight is still on. Each resolution goes outside of the scope of authority of any one committee, though the ways and means comes nearer having the general jurisdiction of the matter to be investigated. The proposition now is to divide the question, giving to the appropriations committee whatever properly relates to appropriations, which is not much, and to then give the ways and means committee authority to proceed with a general investigation of the revenue question.

Three men who are regarded as rival aspirants to the honor of having their names attached to a tariff bill in the next Congress are interested in the contest—the two authors of the resolutions and Mr. McMillis, who as a member of the rules committee and to the contest—the two authors of the resolutions and Mr. McMillis, who as a member of the rules committee are the other.

TO RESTORE HARMONY.

A Plan to Bring Cleveland and Hill A tremendous effort is being made now to restore a perfect harmony within jr., Geo. W. Little, Jane Little and Albert F. the ranks of democratic statesmen. The much - prayed - for reconciliation between Cleveland and Hill is spoken of as right on the point of accomplishment. The appointment of Hill on the advisory committee of the Senate is said to have been for the purpose of putting him in a position to be brought in contact with Cleveland and to make a meeting of the two men in consultation over party affairs almost a necessity.

A REALLY HANDSOME CALENDAR
Is an excellent advertising medium for nearly all business men, but especially so to retail merchants. Calendars, generally cheap, tawdry affairs, are frequently a drug in stores and offices, but it is not so in private families. When they want a Calendar for the house, as they always do, they must usually go and ask for one; consequently when one is sent to them, with the compliments of the season, it is duly appreciated. I do not handle cheap Calendars at all. Mine are WORKS OF ART, sold at moderate prices. H. L. McQUEEN, Printer and Publisher.
